EOI: MPavilion Parkville 2027 Program

* indicates a required field

About MPavilion Parkville

MPavilion Parkville is the University of Melbourne's open-air space for art, ideas and experimentation. The pavilion hosts a program of free workshops, performances, installations and pop-up encounters designed for connection and shared discovery.

We are seeking proposals for creative projects to be presented across Semesters One and Two in 2027. We are particularly interested in:

- Enhancing student experience on campus
- Faculty and academic collaborations
- Creating opportunities for social connection through artistic and creative experiences
- Engagement with this unique public pavilion setting

Please look at our current and past programs as an indication of the scale and scope of the program. Artists, students, staff, researchers, and local communities are all welcome to submit proposals.

The Expression of Interest (EOI) Guidelines on our website must be read and understood before submitting your proposal.

Key Selection Criteria

In selecting projects for the program, the selection committee will consider the following criteria:

- The project concept is high quality, artist-led or involves an artistic or creative process at its centre.
- The project is site-responsive, considering the nature of the building and the public spaces surrounding it.
- The project offers something surprising, unique, or unexpected for audiences at University Square.
- The project plan is realistic in scale given the budget and resources available.

This application form will also ask how you have considered access and sustainability.
